The bomb, the third to go off in Montreal in less than 36 hours, had been placed in one of the lockers available to shoppers for temporary storage of their purchases.

Gunoff Heads 1969 Regatta

R. A. Gunoff was elected general chairman of the Kelowna International Regatta Association at an executive meeting Thursday night.

Gunoff, elected by acclamation, succeeds Murray Joyce who has held that position for the last three years. Joyce has been appointed ex-officio director of the organization.

Ted Runnalls was elected vice-chairman by acclamation, and a vote of confidence was given to secretary Jim Hayes.

Other executive appointments, and committee appointments will be made later.

SEEK BLUE ANGELS

An official pitch will be made to the U.S. Navy for a performance by the Blue Angels Aerobatic team on the Thursday night of the Regatta.

Their performance here is still tentative since it must first be approved by a board in Pensacola, Calif., which will consider the application in December.

"We are cautiously optimistic that the Norad band from Colorado Springs, Colo., will attend next year's Regatta," said secretary Jim Hayes. Their appearance is contingent on travel funds and on whether the dates of next year's Regatta, Aug. 6 to 9 will fit into their itinerary.

The association has decided to join the newly formed Pacific Northwest Festival Association.

All news media are invited to attend future general and executive meetings of the Regatta.

The next executive meeting will be held Dec. 5 at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Dr. Bennett Raps Facilities For Drama Festival In May

Dr. John Bennett, local chairman of the Dominion Drama Festival, appealed for the support of member groups of the Kelowna and District Arts Council at a KADC meeting held this week.

Dr. Bennett will make a presentation to the city council Monday on behalf of the Kelowna Community Theatre advisory board for a planned extension to the local theatre building.

DDF SOON

Referring to the possibility of the city-planned investment of a donated theatre fund of $19,000 for producing eventual dividends, Dr. Bennett stated, "this would not be the wisest approach, when I think of the needs that should be dealt with at the theatre level prior to the Dominion Drama Festival in Kelowna next May."

"Here we have the country's greatest theatrical event in the year honoring our city with a full week's festival and the entourage of hundreds of people involved, as well as a packed house for six days, and all we can look forward to at present are the limited facilities we are tolerating for local productions. We can't sit on our laurels," he said. "Neither can the city fathers. The greatest investment for the theatre complex would be to be well prepared not only for the DDF but for the future mid-valley point bookings that Kelowna would attract in the theatre. We are at the half way point in theatre building development. Investing theatre-marked city funds into the extension plans would be good seed in the ground."

The city of Winnipeg, which will host the 1970 DDF, is already rejecting by making lavish plans for their guests in drama nationally, said Dr. Bennett.

He quoted from a recent issue of the Theatre Arts International magazine in which Kelowna is lauded and boosted as the 1969 DDF city.

"This kind of publicity should not be let down when the host of visitors arrive at our theatre," said Dr. Bennett.

KADC president George Stevenson received pledges of support from representatives of Kelowna Musical Productions, Kelowna Little Theatre, Kelowna Art Exhibit Society and all others present for Dr. Bennett's presentation.

Rev. Father Goddard, a member of the theatre advisory board, said he had come to feel the theatre was being run too much like a cold business.

Other theatres receive grants from city councils for theatre activities and Kelowna should follow suit, he said. Funds from performances should be put back into the theatre but besides this there should be budget considerations.

He said grants by the city to the performing arts had often proved secondary to grants to local sport and other activities.

There should be wider representation on the theatre advisory board, he said. Appointing people to boards for an unlimited term should be frowned upon he said.

Except for Rev. Goddard, board members are permanent appointees of the city.

The day has passed when this procedure is practical, he said. Goddard, past president of the KADC said rental rates at the theatre had improved. The large cross section of arts oriented members could well serve the city should the council seek their help in theatre matters.

Angus Seeks Re-Election In City's Aldermanic Race

Ald. Thomas Angus announced his candidacy this week in the Dec. 7 aldermanic elections. Ald. Angus whose term expires this year joins Ald. D. A. Chapman also seeking re-election and two others M. J. Peters and Dick Stewart in the race.

Ald. Angus, who most people know as Scotty, has spent 22 years in Kelowna and it all started more by chance than anything else.

Angus, newly arrived from Scotland was on his way to Vancouver when he stopped off in Kelowna.

Somehow he never did make it to Vancouver.

Ald. Angus says he and his family liked it so much that the few days spent here visiting friends stretched into 22 years.

"We hope to have many more years in this lovely city," he says.

During his time in Kelowna Ald. Angus has been active in community affairs; six years with the arena commission, two years as chairman of that group, a member of the parks and recreation commission, and a member of the Regatta committee.

He has been active with the AOTS, men's club of the United Church, a member of the Prince Charles Lodge, a member of the Royal Arch, Masons, and the Royal Canadian Legion. Since coming to Kelowna he has taken an active part in soccer, cricket, soft ball and minor hockey.

He took over managerial duties for the Kelowna Bulldogs — junior hockey club in May. In 1953 he formed a committee which helped revive soccer in Kelowna, was chairman of the cricket club, and helped the Kelowna Soft Ball Association council, for lights at Elks stadium raise funds, along with stadium in 1965.

In his six years as alderman he has been chairman of public works, in charge of roads, sidewalks, water department, sewer department, garbage, buildings, inspection, weed and pest control and has been chairman of operation cosmetic, a cleanup campaign for the city.

He has been chairman of every department except finance and zoning.

Two years ago, Ald. Angus retired from business to devote full time to his office with the city.

He has a family of five boys, three of whom are at home. Two children, a boy and girl were killed.

The exit of Ald. J. W. Bedford, who Sunday announced he would not seek re-election, means the 1969 edition of city council will have at least one new face, and with five candidates expected to run Kelowna electors will be guaranteed a choice on voting day.

In addition to aldermanic elections, elections will be held for school trustees. Deadline for nomination of aldermen and trustees is Monday.

Vandals, Thieves Busy With Cars

Cars in the city were the victims of vandals and thieves overnight, and RCMP arrested several people for damaging cars.

RCMP did not release the names of the owners of the cars or the vandals, but said they are in court today.

James Oakes, Beacon Beach Motel, reported early today that the two rear tires and wheels of his car were stolen during the night.

There were no car accidents during the past 24 hours, and RCMP report a generally quiet night.

NEW BOOK STORE OPENS SATURDAY

An interior view of the Mosaic book store which opens at 9:30 a.m. Saturday shows only some of the books which will be for sale at Kelowna's first book store devoted exclusively to this purpose. The store is modelled on similar establishments in California and opening stock will consist of 4,500 volumes. The store will maintain the services of a full-time manager, Mrs. Wilma Dohler, who for many years worked in the Okanagan Regional Library. Through the new store customers will be able to order the latest books, most of which could be obtained previously only after a long wait until they arrived in the mail. The store was constructed for an estimated $50,000, the whole complex includes apartments and a courtyard will cost $300,000. (Courier Photo)

Man Charged With Fraud Given Bail

Bail of $2,500 cash was set in magistrate's court today for a Chetwynd man facing charges of defrauding a woman of $1,000 by a false statement.

Joseph Gray was charged April 24 with the fraud, but has only been recently located by RCMP. He was in custody today. The court was told the man has "been all over the country" in the past months.

He was remanded, without plea or election of trial, until next Friday.

William Duplessis, Johnson's Landing, who pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of stolen property, was fined $250 by Magistrate D. M. White today. The man has been in custody while the court waited for a probation report.

Larry Prosser, Kelowna, was fined $150 for entering a licensed premises while being a minor.

A fine of $100, to be paid forthwith, was imposed on Chester Shearer, Kelowna, convicted of causing a public disturbance in front of a local beer parlor. He was arrested Thursday night when RCMP found him kicking in the headlights of a car.

Another Kelowna youth, Douglas Thompson, reserved plea on a charge of causing unlawful damage. He was arrested in connection with the same incident. He was remanded to next Friday and cash bail of $500 was set.

Eugene Jack, Kelowna, pleaded not guilty to a charge of impaired driving and was remanded to next Friday.

TALKS FAIL

"Because we cannot accede to this outrageous demand the strike continues," the mayor said, "and all of us must endure the resulting inconvenience."

He said the city finds it "hard to believe" that union members walk the street with picket signs because their leaders have demanded a 21 per cent increase.

WHIPSAW TACTICS

Although upset by the strikes, the municipalities have not been "completely intimidated" by the union's "whipsaw tactics," the mayor claims.

He said that, faced by the demands of "one of the strongest unions in Canada," the OMM has at last "seen the handwriting on the wall" and agreed to bring the 20 member municipalities together to "control the inflationary dangers of union demands."

The OMM finally settled on the idea of agreeing to renew all the expired contracts in the 13 involved municipalities and bargain only for salaries on a regional basis. The OMM recognized the disparities between the various communities (inequalities of pay and other conditions), but felt the reduction of these disparities could not be accomplished all in one year.

At last weekend's meetings, the mayor claimed, "almost all points were resolved prior to discussing pay increases."

Charging the municipalities to remain "custodians of the taxpayers' money," Mayor Peterkin said the OMM's offer of wage increase is in line with the pattern of settlements in B.C. this year: about six or seven per cent.

Alan Moss Joins Aldermanic Race

Alan Moss has announced his intention to contest one of the aldermanic seats in the December civic election in Kelowna.

President of Mosaic Enterprises Limited, a new commercial-residential complex, he has lived in Kelowna since 1951.

The colorful career of Col. Moss began during the war serving in the Indian Army, with the Royal Artillery and 8th Gurkha Rifles. Since that time the military has been an integral part of his life. Formerly Commanding Officer of the British Columbia Dragoons, he recently retired from the post of Militia Advisor for the Interior.

Formal education in his chosen profession began at Edinburgh University following the war. Upon receiving his bachelor's degree in Forestry, he became woodlands manager for S. M. Simpson Limited in Kelowna; a position he held from 1951 to 1966. He is currently engaged in a special study of forestry policy and management to earn his doctorate in this highly specialized field.

An intimate knowledge of the forest industry at both policy and operating levels has led to his appointment to several executive positions in the past, including the chairmanship of the Okanagan section of the Canadian Institute of Forestry; chairman of the Canadian Forestry Association National Re-organization Committee and as vice-president of the Canadian Forestry Association of British Columbia.

He presently serves as a member of the Forestry Advisory Committee of the B.C. Institute of Technology in Burnaby.

Indications of strong electoral support over the past several years, a belief that a full slate is essential for proper operation of the democratic process and a long-standing concern for civic government policies and practices, prompted the decision to enter the aldermanic race.

For the second night in a row, the Kelowna fire brigade was called out Thursday to answer false alarms. Wednesday night found the firemen answering two non-existent fires.

Two more false alarms were answered Thursday. At 7 p.m., the firemen went to the corner of Ellis Street and Oxford Avenue where someone had set off the alarm. Thursday's other trip was to the Aquatic at 8:15 p.m.

LOCATING HERE

U.S. Industries Show Interest

At least one or two major United States industries may decide to locate plants in the Kelowna area as a result of a promotion tour to California late last month by three industrial commissioners.

Reg. Nourse, Kelowna Chamber of Commerce assistant manager and city-chamber industrial commissioner, was one of the men to go to Los Angeles to "sell" Kelowna. He described his trip, sponsored by the Okanagan Regional Development Commission, Thursday to the chamber.

Pointing out that five major firms are "involved and interested" in Kelowna, Nourse told the chamber members that "out of the trip at least one or two industries will establish here."

The trip, he said, was a success in many ways and a disappointment in others. He stressed the fact that there is "no substitute for personal contact" and said his delegation had managed to talk to the presidents of most of the firms they contacted in the U.S.

The trip was a "tremendous eye-opener" in pointing out what industries want when they move to Canada, Nourse said. Primarily, U.S. firms are interested in acquisition of an already-established industry in the area, he said; firms that are operating on a 3 1/2 per cent profit basis that can be bought.

If this is not available, U.S. firms want mergers or joint ventures with existing industry.

A third choice is a licensing agreement, whereby the home firm manufactures the U.S. firm's product under contract.

"They are least interested in building a plant of their own here," Nourse explained.

NEED MARKET

Another deciding factor, he said, is whether the U.S. firm has a market in Canada for its product. Firms that are already selling in the country are more amenable to locating here.

Nourse said he spent much of his time describing to Americans "where we were, what's it like." Few people knew anything about the Okanagan Valley, he said, although some had been to Vancouver.

The B.C. government office in Los Angeles, and federal offices there, were "not much help" in the tour, Nourse said. He congratulated branches of Canadian banks in Los Angeles for "excellent assistance" in organizing and aiding with the contacts, which were often 40 or 50 miles apart, the assistant chamber manager said.

The chamber agreed that what Nourse had learned placed a "whole new angle" on the question of luring industry to the valley. The question of what local industry might be eligible according to the acquisition-merger-licence formula of U.S. industry. No firms were named, although Nourse said he knows one in Kelowna.

"Sometimes we have more at home than we realize," he added.

Improvements Expected At Post Office

A "wait-and-see" attitude has been adopted by the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce in respect to inadequate facilities at the city's post office.

Last week, the chamber conveyed a public complaint to the postmaster that long lineups were common at the post office while people waited to send parcels or buy stamps. A letter from Postmaster Jack Burgess was read to the chamber members Thursday explaining the problem.

A lack of space at the wickets and lack of an extra employee to handle heavy loads of customers are to blame for the line-ups, Burgess said in the letter. He mentioned a federal government "freeze" on additions to staff.

He said the post office will do its best to improve the situation.

The chamber discussed enquiring about the "freeze" at higher levels but decided to wait and see if the service improves at the post office.

Fresh Snow Blankets Allison Pass

Seven inches of fresh snow fell in the Allison Pass overnight, according to the Department of Highways report today. It continues to snow lightly. Plowing and sanding is in progress and motorists are advised to use winter tires or carry chains.

In the Rogers Pass area, there is five inches of new snow in the Albert Canyon to Glacier gate section and it is still snowing. Plowing and sanding is in progress. From Glacier gate to Yoho gate the road is bare and wet and from Yoho gate to Banff gate it is snowing, with one half to three inches of new snow. From Banff gate to Calgary the road is bare. Winter tires or carry chains are advised.

The department reported rain early today in the Fraser Canyon. The road is bare and wet, but otherwise good. Motorists are warned to watch for falling rock and to use winter tires or carry chains.

From Kamloops to Revelstoke the road is all bare, mostly dry, with a construction area, seven miles west of Salmon Arm. Watch for fallen rock in the Three Valley Gap area. From Revelstoke to Albert Canyon the road is bare.

Highway 97 is bare and wet mostly. From Kelowna to Beaver Creek the road is bare and wet at lower levels, with compact snow at higher levels. Slippery sections are sanded. Use winter tires or carry chains.

The road is mostly bare and dry to Cherryville on the Vernon-Lumbly road. At the Monashee, there is compact snow with some slippery sections sanded. Winter tires or carry chains is advised.

Sunny weather with a few cloudy periods is forecast for Saturday in Kelowna. Temperatures should be a little colder tonight. Winds are expected to be light, except south at 20 this afternoon.

The low tonight and high Saturday are forecast at 33 and 41 Kelowna's low and high Thursday were 34 and 51 with 61 precipitation, compared with 34 and 41 and a trace on the same date a year ago.

Businessmen, Employees Park Illegally In Town

Illegal parking along Bernard Avenue by downtown businessmen and their employees has brought sharp criticism from the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce.

Frank Addison said at Thursday's regular chamber meeting that some people are taking advantage of the fact that the city's special traffic officers are on strike and are leaving their cars parked on Bernard Avenue all day, depriving customers of the stores use of the spaces. He complained last week about it.

Thursday he said the RCMP which does not regularly issue parking tickets, will be patrolling Bernard Avenue today to nab violators of the one-hour parking rule.

"I feel we should say something to somebody about this," E. S. Dickens said.

BRICKBAT

He also had a brickbat for the striking members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees in the city. "These union members are offending an awful lot of people by parking all over the street while they are on picket duty."

"If they are looking for public support for their cause, they are going about it the wrong way," he said.

Addison said the general public is being "very good" about the parking situation during the strike.

The chamber turned from brickbats to bouquets when the topic of the recently-formed Newcomers Club was brought up. Organized by Mrs. Sylvia Sullivan, the club held its first social evening this week at the Capri.

Chamber manager Bill Stevenson said he went to the welcome get-together and stopped counting heads at 348. The club had apparently been expecting about 100 people at the affair. Included were people from London, Kenya, New Zealand and Texas.

"I think this thing is a tremendous success," Stevenson said. "Judging by the turnout, there is obviously a need for this sort of thing in Kelowna." The chamber moved to send a letter of congratulations to Mrs. Sullivan, who has financed the club from her own pocket.

CHAMBER BRIEFS

Study Of Truck Routes In The City To Be Sought

The city's traffic advisory committee will be asked by the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce to study truck routes in the city.

Complaints that trucks now drive aimlessly about the streets because there are not "truck route" signs about prompted the chamber to ask for the investigation.

A chamber display, featuring Kelowna, will be shipped to Vancouver next Thursday to grace the annual convention of the B.C. Professional Engineers Association. The chamber hopes to encourage the engineers to hold the convention in Kelowna in 1969.

The mayors of Comox and Courtenay will be in Kelowna Monday at the invitation of the Chamber of Commerce to study industrial development here.

Reg. Nourse, the chamber's assistant manager, will guide the mayors through the city on their quest for methods of attracting industries. Nourse will discuss the same topic with a sales group of the Okanagan Mainline Real Estate Board Dec. 4.

Frank Addison told the chamber he will attend the wrap-up meeting of this year's Okanagan-Silkamkeen Tourist Association next Wednesday. A new slate of officers for next year will be appointed at the meeting.

New Book Store Caters To Readers Of All Ages

Ian Fleming of James Bond fame has a new book especially designed for children.

Chitty Chitty Bang Bang may not be the usual James Bond story but the Mosaic book store, 1449 St. Paul St., which opens its doors for the first time Saturday has others for people of all ages.

For the children there are Dr. Seuss books, beginner's books, those for teenagers and older, of whatever age or taste.

In all, the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Moss, have 600 children's books. The opening stock will consist of about 4,500 volumes but the list will expand when the interests of the community have been gauged.

"We think in Kelowna there is an unsatisfied need for a store which deals exclusively in books," said Mrs. Moss.

The store will have an inventory system that will enable it to turn over its complete stock of books about three times a year and a new line of books from such publishers as Longmans, Saunders and MacMillan.

A part of the store will be devoted to history and cook books.

An exclusive line of Penguin pocket books will be carried from British and Canadian publishers. They are usually hard to find, said Mrs. Moss.

The owners in close co-operation with the chief George Barnes, started planning the store in September of last year. They looked at similar stores in California and borrowed some of their ideas, modifying them slightly to suit Kelowna.

Mr. Moss, 44 and an employee of S. M. Simpson Ltd. until two years ago has been self-employed since then, preparing a study on forestry and forest management in B.C. and Britain.

The book store is only part of a larger development which will include a series of apartments to the north and a court and to the east.

Rooms above the book store will be used for offices and there will be a room where such items as exclusive lines of furniture and old English prints will be sold when this part of the project is completed early in the new year.

The store has obtained the services of a full-time manager, Mrs. Wendy Sinclair, a former Kelowna's low and high Thursday were 34 and 51 with 61 precipitation, compared with 34 and 41 and a trace on the same date a year ago.

Taxpayers Are Entitled To Accounting By CBC

Many ask what it is costing the taxpayer for the elaborate and wide-spread coverage of sports in Canada and foreign countries by the CBC. There seems to be a tendency by the CBC to lean towards sports coverage or outside network programs.

The bill must be high and there is just no limit as to what they spend. Football playoffs are costly to program and the next big spectacular is the Grey Cup game. Not only will the game be completely televised by CBC but pre-game festivities, interviews, fashion shows, and many other events will be shown.

They are still asking questions in Ottawa about the cost of the CBC's coverage of Mexico City's two-week Olympic Games extravaganza. There is no argument it was big. And however reluctant this massive Crown establishment to disclose it, the public through parliament, has a right to know the entire, sad story. The public after all must pay the bill.

Some real facts have come to light. Health and Welfare Minister John Munro confirms that Canada's Olympic athletic team numbered 136. CBC's president George Davidson discloses that there were 129 members on the broadcasting team. Seven more and it would have been man-for-man coverage.

Of these, including French and English-speaking radio and television crews, announcers and commentators, 106 were working directly for the CBC.

The other 23 members, it seems, were giving a hand to the American Broadcasting Company for reasons not disclosed.

In any event, this 129-member contingent produced 180 hours of radio and television over CBC stations. This is held as full justification for whatever the cost involved.

Keep 'Royal' In RCMP

(Calgary Herald)

It may be news to Mr. George Valade, a Progressive Conservative MP from Montreal, but there are a great many Canadians who still value their nation's traditions.

Hence, Mr. Valade can expect to make little headway with his suggestion that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police change its name to Canadian Mounted Police.

Anyone who objects to the word "royal" either has a limited understanding of Canada's status as a full-fledged independent monarchy or else is suffering from an outmoded inferiority complex based on the false supposition that Canada is still, in some way, subservient to Britain.

Retirement Switch

When a 34-year employee retired recently from a Crown Zellerbach operation, he received gifts from friends, expressions of appreciation for his pleasant association with the company and a retirement plaque. The procedure was usual for such instances. Less usual was the employee's presentation of a plaque to the company "In Appreciation of 34 Years' Employment".

The conventional "best years of his life" in this case apparently were a gift not only to, but from the company—a point seldom appreciated.

IT HAPPENED IN CANADA

Doctor Hadn't Time to Treat Blue Lips and Purple Ears

By FRED HAMILTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Pressure from war casualties was too heavy in the wards of his British military hospital for Dr. Herbert French to spare time in October, 1918, for the men with purple ears and blue lips.

They would be dead within 48 hours no matter what he did, victims of pneumonia and influenza in the third worst disease disaster in recorded human history.

"In going round a large ward one could... pick out those who were going to die... by their color alone," Dr. French wrote in 1920. "It was a distinctive color of the lips and ears... bluish and in some cases purple."

The strange coloration was the "dreaded heliotrope cyanosis" of the flu epidemic that 50 years ago sped around the world in the dying months of the First World War, killed 21,000,000, sickened 50 times that many and left among the living a legacy of kidney, heart and lung ailments.

So rapidly did the disease become pandemic—prevalent around the world—and so severe was its death toll that doctors could not believe it was a form of influenza only slightly more virulent than the disease they knew.

But despite everything that was done, the death toll climbed: 1,700 in a week in Philadelphia, 170 a day in Toronto, 700 a day in New York.

LAY FOR WEEKS

In large cities bodies lay in townships for weeks at a time. Morgues were filled to overflowing; furniture vans became ambulances, the dead were buried in segregated corners of cemeteries without family witnesses.

Its cause unknown and its origins a mystery, people could not agree even on what to call the disease. To the Americans it was European flu, to the British it was the "Spanish" flu, to the French it was grippe, to the German soldiers it was blitzkatarrh.

Most people called it Spanish flu—some because they thought it had originated there, others because that country was particularly hard hit.

There is little evidence that the disease began in any one place, but rather that it broke out in several areas about the same time.

Flu of the "three-day fever" variety had been prevalent in the spring and summer as well as earlier in the war; but the death rate and symptoms had not been unusual. When soaring death rates were first detected they were reported from several places at once: England and Wales, the United States, Germany and Austria.

By October it was pandemic, with hundreds of millions ill, millions dead or dying.

FEW ESCAPED

In all the world only St. Helena in the south Atlantic and Mauritius in the Indian Ocean escaped. The bodies of Eskimos, partly eaten by their dogs, were found on the Labrador coast weeks after the flu hit their isolated villages.

In the Pacific Islands, 8,000 died on Samoa alone and in Fiji the banana crop went unharvested.

Australia delayed—but did not stop—the onslaught by imposing rigid land and maritime quarantines; but when it came in January, 1919, the disease was as severe as it had been elsewhere.

It already was medical theory that influenza resulted from a virus, but records indicate that only in Canada was an attempt made to develop a preventive vaccine.

One was made early in 1918 by Toronto's Connaught Laboratories, the Ontario board of salt water. In Oklahoma a woman said she found protection by having all her teeth pulled. Some people in Kitchener, Ont., thought it possible to escape the disease by having the appendix removed. And in Philadelphia, which already had proclaimed "spitless Sundays," the medical society advised young people to kiss only through a handkerchief.

Liquor was a favorite remedy in Canada, as it was in England. The Temperance Act in Toronto was violated enough to permit two vendors to supply whiskey, and "long lines of waiting citizens testified to the number of prescriptions."

Prince Edward Island gave its liquor-prescription business to two clergymen.

The late Dr. J. E. Gimby, for many years medical officer for Saint John, N.B., was still prescribing brandy in the Asian flu epidemic of 1957.

But despite everything that was done, the death toll climbed: 1,700 in a week in Philadelphia, 170 a day in Toronto, 700 a day in New York.

LAY FOR WEEKS

In large cities bodies lay in townships for weeks at a time. Morgues were filled to overflowing; furniture vans became ambulances, the dead were buried in segregated corners of cemeteries without family witnesses.

Its cause unknown and its origins a mystery, people could not agree even on what to call the disease. To the Americans it was European flu, to the British it was the "Spanish" flu, to the French it was grippe, to the German soldiers it was blitzkatarrh.

Most people called it Spanish flu—some because they thought it had originated there, others because that country was particularly hard hit.

There is little evidence that the disease began in any one place, but rather that it broke out in several areas about the same time.

Flu of the "three-day fever" variety had been prevalent in the spring and summer as well as earlier in the war; but the death rate and symptoms had not been unusual. When soaring death rates were first detected they were reported from several places at once: England and Wales, the United States, Germany and Austria.

By October it was pandemic, with hundreds of millions ill, millions dead or dying.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Anglo-Saxons Still Confronting Bear

By PHILIP DEANE
Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Light Brigade perished through the stupidity of a British general in a war fought more than 100 years ago to deny the Russians use of the Mediterranean. Britain and France fought the battle of Muscovy then to uphold Turkey's right to keep the Russian fleet bottled up in the Black Sea. And there now, in the Mediterranean, is a growing Soviet fleet.

Some lessons can be drawn from this: penetration into the Mediterranean is not a communist policy. It is a Russian policy. We would be facing the same problem today if the czars were still on their throne. The czars in their day, as the Kremlin leaders today, wanted to have influence in the Mediterranean. They encouraged the Greeks to seek independence from the Turkish empire which inclined towards alliance with the British. Some Russian geopoliticians spoke in the early days of the last century of breaking the cord that the Anglo-Saxons were placing around mother Russia, from India all the way to Turkey.

Russia is still trying to turn Turkey's flank. Turkey is still flirting with the Anglo-Saxons. Unrest against this combination, now called the eastern wing of NATO is now being fomented by Russia—a traditional policy.

ISRAEL

It is most worrying for Israel which has not taken the role of Turkey, to be sure, but which provides Russia with anti-western opportunities. In this context, the presence of a Russian fleet in the Mediterranean can be interpreted by the Arabs as a guarantee that they will not be prevented by a western landing from destroying Israel militarily. The Arabs might imagine—and they do have a great capacity for imagination—that during the next round, American forces will hesitate to help Israel because that would involve the risk of a direct military confrontation between the U.S. and the Soviet Union at sea in the eastern Mediterranean.

Rather than be faced with the possibility of such a clash, the U.S. will arm Israel. The Jewish state will be given all the military hardware it wants. This will hardly advance the Arab cause but it will advance the traditional Russian policy of disturbing western arrangements in the Mediterranean.

The more the U.S. arms the Israelis, the more anti-U.S. the Arabs become, the more Russian influence increases. Influence to do what? Block the Suez Canal? It is already blocked. Get to Middle East oil? The West could manage without and Russia has more than she needs.

But the Moscow hardliners who are in the ascendant as the Czech crisis demonstrates do not look very far; they are very old-fashioned. Just like student activists, they believe that all they need to do is make trouble and something better for Russia might result.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Boy Too Choosy About His Diet

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Doctor Molner: My son, now eight, has been on almost a starvation diet since he was nine months old. The only foods he will eat: dry bread (continually) with nothing on it, milk, uncooked macaroni or spaghetti which he stuffs in his pockets to eat when he goes out, peeled apple, gelatin.

Once in a while he will have cereal, with milk and sugar, and pancakes. He likes cookies and most all sweets, but I limit them. His doctor has prescribed vitamins but thinks he will outgrow this situation.

He says the smell of any cooked food makes him sick. He is not getting any meat or vegetables, but I put an egg in his "instant breakfast."

He looks healthy, plays well with boys his age, is usually happy but inclined to be lazy (or tired). He sucks his thumb at home but not at school or with other children.

We have no eating problems with three other children, two a little older, one younger. — Mrs. E.H.

It is most unbelievable that a child would insist on such an unsuitable diet for so long. In any event, something has gone wrong, and the fact that he still sucks his thumb at his age implies some sort of disturbance.

You are, I am sure, doing something to protect his nutritional needs—the vitamins, and the eggs. Without the egg, his only protein would be what little he gets from bread, cereal, and milk. And you are right in restricting sweets.

Still, I can foresee only trouble for him eventually until he accepts a better-balanced diet, more protein and vegetables.

The likely assumption is that his eating pattern may be one way of expressing himself, or protesting, if you please. Since the goofy pattern started so young, he may be protesting about something he no longer remembers. He may have gotten in the habit of rebelling thus.

By the way, I know one youngster something like this (an only child of older parents) who fared mostly on mashed potato and soft eggs. Yet when he came to our house for dinner, he was served pork chops and ate them without a murmur. How does your boy eat when visiting elsewhere?

Dear Dr. Molner: Just what is luko playkea, how harmful is it, what causes it? Is there a cure? Is smoking bad for it? — E.M.

Your ear caught the sound perfectly — but it is spelled leukoplakia.

This is a whitish, patchy thickening of a mucous membrane caused by irritation of some sort and is usually seen in the mouth (tongue or insides of cheeks) but can occur elsewhere, as in the genital tract. Smoking decidedly can be a factor, as can irritation from broken or sharp-edged teeth.

Treatment is to remove the irritation. These areas can become malignant, increasing in size, cracking and becoming painful. In such event, surgical removal is necessary.

CANADA'S STORY

French Ships Fled By Running Gauntlet

By BOB ROWMAN

When Winston Churchill became Prime Minister of Britain in 1940 and took over the leadership of the war against Germany he experienced a series of disasters. Among them, units of the German navy that had been bottled up at Brest, managed to escape through the English channel. It was a humiliating experience for Britain.

General Murray, the first British Governor of Canada, also got away to a considerable extent in 1759. Murray had been left in charge after Wolfe's victory and was appointed Governor of Canada on Nov. 21. On the very next day units of the French fleet, which had been hiding in the Richelieu River, appeared at Sillery above Quebec. It was obvious that they intended to get past the fortress and return to France.

They lay above Quebec until the night of Nov. 24 and then began to sail past Murray's gun. It was a valiant effort and eight ships managed to get through, although they were damaged and suffered casualties. Four of the French ships failed to get by and ran aground. One of them was on the south shore and Murray sent a party of soldiers to investigate. The ship blew up soon after the soldiers got to it and most of them were killed. It was severely wounded. It is believed that the ship was a "Redoubt."

Soon after, Murray began receiving messages threatening his life. One of them said that there was a large party of Indians dressers" waiting to attend him!

It was a dreadful winter for the British soldiers in Quebec. They were not equipped for winter weather, and many of them were killed. Of the original force of 7000 left at Quebec only 3000 were fit for duty in April. So that it was necessary to bury many dead during the winter their bodies in snowdrifts until spring.

Golf Club Ladies Section Closes Season With Dinner

On Tuesday evening the ladies' section of the Kelowna Golf and Country Club held their closing day dinner at the clubhouse, and following a friendship hour more than 75 playing members thoroughly enjoyed a delicious smorgasbord dinner.

The president of the ladies' section, Mrs. J. S. D. McClymont, introduced the head table guests: Mrs. Michael Reid, the vice-president; Mrs. H. H. Johnston, secretary treasurer; Mrs. J. A. Finucane, captain; Mrs. Peter Ratel, vice-captain; Mrs. Ernest Mason and Mrs. J. S. Gibbs, house committee chairmen; Mrs. W. P. T. McGhee and Mrs. H. H. Bridger, entertainment chairmen; Mrs. John Campbell and Mrs. A. W. Moore, match committee; and Mrs. E. M. Gellert, past captain.

The minutes of the annual meeting and the financial report were read by the secretary, and the president then gave her annual report. It was a very successful year, reported Mrs. McClymont, highlighted by moving into the new clubhouse, and hosting the B.C. Women's Close Championship, which was most successfully chaired by Mrs. H. H. Johnston. The president suggested too that golfers have their luncheon at the long tables in the dining room after play on ladies' day rather than in the bar, and she thanked all her executive for their excellent work during the past year.

Mrs. Carl Stevenson, the nominating officer, then read the new slate of officers for 1969. Elected president is Mrs. Michael Reid, vice-president, Mrs. J. L. Gordon; secretary, Mrs. Ernest Mason; treasurer, Mrs. Peter Ratel; vice-captain, Mrs. H. J. Henshaw; chairmen of the house committee, Mrs. J. S. Gibb and Mrs. J. Van Hees; chairmen of entertainment committee, Mrs. A. S. Finlater and Mrs. P. T. Scramstad, and chairmen of the match committee, Mrs. A. W. Moore and Mrs. M. A. Anthony. The meeting was then turned over to the new executive and Mrs. Reid said how pleased she is with the excellent slate of officers, who will work with her in the best interests of the club. She also discussed new dates for the main tournament, as these will no longer be held on Saturdays.

Mrs. M. C. Lowe spoke on behalf of the nine holers who, she said, would like a set time to start off the 10th tee on ladies' day, and would run their own competitions.

It was suggested by Mrs. Crete Shirreff that there be one woman on the board of directors of the club, as there are now 240 women members, the third highest women's membership in B.C. This was taken under consideration as it would necessitate a change in the constitution.

Mrs. McClymont then announced that gifts had been presented to David Crane, the club professional, and to Jock Watson for their able assistance during the past year, and one was then presented to the popular cateress, Mrs. M. Bremacombe.

Concluding the evening were the presentation of the trophies and prizes to the 1968 winners, which had been on view during the evening, by Mrs. McClymont and Mrs. Finucane. They also made the presentation of a beautiful iron to Mrs. Johnston who has held several posts on the executive, and has been the secretary-treasurer of the ladies' section for the past seven years, as well as being the successful chairman of the B.C. Close this spring.

ANN LANDERS

Screaming Mothers Need Outside Help

Dear Ann Landers: I'm ashamed to talk to my minister about this and my doctor won't take my problem seriously. When I tried to discuss it with him on two occasions he gave me some sample envelopes of tranquilizers and said, "Try these. All mothers go through this when their children are little."

My children are 2½ and 4½ years old. They are driving me crazy. Every morning I resolve to be pleasant and gentle with them. By noon I am shrieking my head off and punishing at every turn. By nightfall I am praying again, "Dear God, please forgive me for being so impatient with my children."

Why must children test their mothers to the limit of their tolerance? Do they ever learn to do as they are told the first time? I've read that youngsters love to please their parents. I don't believe it. Mine have received a great deal more love and attention than most, yet they seem so determined to ignore me and do as they please. Sometimes I don't think I'll make it through the next three years, when they both will be in school. Can you say something that will help me keep my sanity? Please try—FALLING APART

Dear Falling: Every mother has bad days and such days should be expected. But if you are having weeks and months of frustration, screaming and punishing followed by guilt feelings and periods of depression, you need outside help. Tranquilizers are no answer. Many cities have counselling programs offered through mental health clinics. Some are free, others charge a nominal fee.

Dear Ann Landers: My son, 10½, is a real pain. He is a service next month. He and his wife have been married less than six months. A divorce dispute has arisen over where Tex's ex-wife should stay. She cannot afford to keep the apartment.

The girl is 17 and has been worse than my son. She wants to move in with a girl friend who has had a boyfriend for two months. She says she will be a good deal if she would look to high school and get a little more education. Please don't tell me to MYSELF. Tex's ex-wife is a woman and I don't have a

Tears Plentiful At Warden Woods

TORONTO (CP) — Tears are plentiful at Warden Woods, an apartment and maisonette housing development built by the Ontario Housing Corp. in east-end suburban Scarborough.

Many problems exist among the 2,000 Warden Woods residents, but the people have the full support of churchmen and several Metropolitan Toronto welfare agencies.

Warden Woods provides housing for families uprooted from their familiar surroundings through eviction, expropriation and various other causes that send families onto the welfare roll.

Help is close at hand for the distressed through the Family Services Association, Children's Aid Society, Metro's departments of health and welfare as well as volunteers from the Mennonite Church under the leadership of Rev. John Hess, Warden Park Church pastor.

They are faced with a variety of problems, such as the case of a teen-aged girl, found crying in a corner of a Warden Woods youth centre. A volunteer comforted the girl and found that her mother had deserted the family. Help was quickly arranged for the family through the Warden Woods Community Services Unit.

Personal distress knows no age barrier. An 80-year-old woman refused to enter hospital since no one would look after her blind 85-year-old husband. The community services unit offered their help and the woman, assured that her husband was in good hands, went to hospital.

LACKED CO-ORDINATION

The various welfare agencies at Warden Woods are organized by Anna Bowman, who studied social work in the United States and came to Toronto from a family service agency in York, Pa.

A native of Ontario's Waterloo County, Miss Bowman admitted that the York project was a failure.

She said the project, based on the United States federal program to aid poverty areas, failed since there was no co-ordination between the various agencies.

Referring to the joint efforts of the Metro agencies at Warden Woods, Miss Bowman said about 75 families are currently under the care of the community services unit and many more helped by volunteers.

"I have the confident feeling that this is the direction that social and community services have to go if they are to have any meaning for the poor, families in the city."

It was decided to change the date of the meetings to the first Tuesday of each month and the next meeting will be the Christmas party, also to be held on the church basement on Dec. 24 at 8 p.m.

Befriended by Quent, Art confides some of his domestic problems, which he is unable to solve at a distance of 3,000 miles. He also confesses that, despite his bluster to the contrary, he needs his job in Parliament, unless he's to start all over again in business at age 45. WALTER WANGER DIES

Showman And Statesman Battled In Movie Mogul

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Throughout his long career in films, Walter Wanger seemed torn between two elements of his character: showman and statesman.

Wanger, who died Monday in New York at 74, was a curiosity among movie moguls. For one thing, he was a college graduate — Dartmouth '15. That alone set him apart from the empire-building primitives of Hollywood.

He seemed almost professorial in manner and appearance. Indeed, he enjoyed visiting campuses to expound to students on economics and international politics, as well as movies.

He served as president of the Motion Picture Academy and sparked industry drives for charity and good will. He visited the White House and offered his advice on national and world problems.

COULD SURVIVE

Wanger also knew how to survive in the Hollywood jungle.

He could wheel and deal with the toughest studio bosses — Louis B. Mayer, Harry Cohn and so on — and escape unharmed. He could produce classics like Stagecoach and The Long Voyage Home as well as Salome, Where She Danced and Invasion of the Body Snatcher. He also managed to precipitate — and survive — one of the biggest Hollywood scandals of the 1950s.

Wanger produced plays in London and New York before starting in films as eastern production manager for Paramount. Film-making jobs at Columbia and MGM convinced him to pursue an independent course, and he started his own company in 1935.

FILMS VARIED

His films varied between thought-provoking efforts and sheer escapism. Among the former: The President Vanishes and Gabriel Over the White House, about national politics; Blockade, a drama of the Spanish Civil war; Private Worlds, mental illness; Smash-up, alcoholism.

Among the entertainment films: Foreign Correspondent, first-rate Hitchcock; Algiers, which made stars of Charles Boyer and Hedy Lamarr; Eagle Squadron; Arabian Knights; Trade Winds; Stand-in; Joan of Arc; Tap Roots.

In 1951, Hollywood was shaken by the news that Walter Wanger had fired a pistol at Jennings Lang, agent for Mrs. Wanger, actress Joan Bennett.

"I shot him because I thought he was breaking up my home," Wanger told police. Lang recovered from a groin wound, and Wanger pleaded guilty to assault with a deadly weapon.

He was sentenced to four months in jail.

Wanger demonstrated his own recuperative powers by resuming his career and marriage after serving time. He capitalized on the experience by writing magazine articles on penology and producing a film against capital punishment, I Want to Live, which won an Academy Award for Susan Hayward in 1958.

Wheeling and dealing again, Wanger sold Twentieth-Century Fox on a big-budget Cleopatra. A series of troubles bloated the budget to $40,000,000 and nearly sank Twentieth-Century Fox into bankruptcy.

Lennon And Ono Lose Their Baby

LONDON (CP) — Beatle John Lennon's Japanese girl-friend, Yoko Ono, Thursday lost the baby she and Lennon were expecting in February. The Queen Charlotte Maternity Hospital announced that the 34-year-old sculptress and maker of underground movies had a miscarriage. Lennon, 28, recently divorced, has said he and Miss Ono would marry, but there has been no word of divorce action by her husband.

Audrey And Mel Granted Divorce

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Audrey Hepburn, 39, and Mel Ferrer, 51, were divorced Wednesday in Morges, Switzerland, a friend of the couple announced. The actress, 39, was reported a year ago to be living in the family home in Switzerland with the couple's son, Sean, 8. At the time a spokesman said the couple had separated after 13 years of marriage.

NAMED TO POST

Colin Gobold has been appointed CBC Washington correspondent to replace James M. Mini-fie.

Festival Director Dies At Age Of 70

NEW YORK (Reuters) — A firm of undertakers filed a $1-000,000 suit against a coffin manufacturer and a distributor Wednesday. The suit complains that during a funeral service April 11, as the coffin was being carried along the pavement outside a Roman Catholic church, the bottom dropped and the body tumbled out.

U.S. Base Closes Near Peshawar

RAWALPINDI (AP) — United States Ambassador Benjamin Oehler Jr. announced Thursday that the American air base at Peshawar, Pakistan, will be closed next July. This follows Pakistan's one-year notice to the U.S. last spring that it did not want to renew the 10-year agreement covering the base.

BEVERLY HILLS WEDDING

Actress Gayle Hunnicutt poses with her bridegroom, actor David Hemmings who lives in London, after they were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hansor in Beverly Hills, Calif. Hemmings is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Hemmings of Pyrford, Surrey. They plan a honeymoon in Mexico. The bride is a native of Fort Worth, Texas.

Nothing Matters Frightfully To 'Symbol Of Modern Youth'

NEW YORK (AP)—"Everything matters—everything matters—but nothing matters frightfully."

At 26, this is the philosophy of David Hemmings, the handsome British movie star who has been hailed, mistakenly he says, as a symbol of modern youth.

Currently starred in The Charge of the Light Brigade, Hemmings skyrocketed to fame as the haunted, nihilistic young photographer in Michelangelo Antonioni's film, Blow-up.

"That seemed to make me out to be an example of apathetic modern youth," he said. "I'm not. My ideal is the Renaissance man, one who is interested in everything, willing to try anything, and isn't frightened of making mistakes."

"I believe in youth today very much, but not in some of its beliefs about itself. It is too apathetic. Demonstrations and shouting are not necessarily involvement with anything—except shouting."

"I predict the suicide rate in this country and England will go up 500 per cent in the next 15 years as a result of over-introspection. People are too self-involved. They avoid the responsibility of society because they are unable to cope with the personal societies that are within them.

"Youth simply will have to burden itself with the responsibilities of adulthood, but at present they're not prepared for it."

The long-haired actor, gifted with an exuberant charm, has an extraordinary zest for living and has led a bohemian, knock-about life since childhood.

He started touring Britain at nine as a boy soprano in an opera troupe, and when his voice changed at 14 he was so upset he fled his home to live alone in London.

At 15 he held a successful exhibition of his paintings, then launched a career as a theatrical agent, which came to nothing. David then washed cars, worked with a mountain rescue team in Wales, spent two years in an Austrian night club singing and playing the guitar. By the time he was picked for the role in Blow-Up, he had become a well-known television and stage actor in London.

He reads widely, writes, hopes to become a director in another year.

Hemmings, who admits he is "a difficult person to have relationships with," married at 19. Now divorced, he is engaged to Gayle Hunnicutt, a slender young Texas actress.

MOVIES MAN DIES

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Samuel J. Briskin, vice-president of Columbia Pictures, died Thursday at the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Centre. He was 71.

Briskin was admitted two weeks ago after suffering an apparent heart attack.

Trev Howard A Happy Fella

NEW YORK (AP)—You hardly ever meet a totally happy man anymore, but Trevor Howard says he's one.

"I have no ambition except to be happy—happy enough not to need any other goal," said Howard, who at 52 is rated as one of Britain's top actors.

A slender forthright man with sea-green eyes, ruddy cheeks and sandy-reddish hair, Howard is allergic to stuffy people, refuses to endure boredom, and enjoys a bit of larking when he isn't working. Having completed his 49th and 50th films recently—The Charge of the Light Brigade and The Battle of Britain, he was in merry mood during a recent visit here.

"I was the original rebel," he remarked, "but being alone at it, I wasn't able to win the battle. So now I've got the name of just being a hell-raiser. After Errol Flynn left, I became No. 1."

Son of a British shipper, he spent five years of his childhood in Ceylon and disappointed his family when he chose to be an actor rather than a soldier. However, as a paratroop officer in the Second World War, he won the Military Cross for gallantry.

"I became an actor because I couldn't think of anything else to be except a bum or a beach-comber," he said. "Once I was offered a job selling umbrellas in Argentina, but I didn't think I'd be good at that, and I turned it down."

SKILL WON HIM FAME
Howard's deceptive skill at his trade won him fame in such films as Brief Encounter, The Third Man and Mutiny on the Bounty.

"I only do the things I want," he said. "A man's a Mongolian idiot to live any other way. What's the good of stacking money away if you can't take it with you?"

"I believe life is for laughs. If you've got laughs, you've got friends, and if you have friends you have loyalty, no matter where in the world you are—and, hell, what more do you want?"

KELOWNA DAILY COURIER, FRI., NOV. 22, 1968 PAGE 5A

S. Africa Abhors TV

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — The South African government appears determined to keep television out of the country to the disappointment of millions of would-be viewers.

Opposition politicians claim the government is banning TV because most programs would be bought from Britain and the United States. This would submerge Afrikaans language and culture.

South Africa is the only advanced country that still lacks television, a fact which accounts for probably the world's highest movie attendance figures and an impatient clamor from the public for TV.

The government has long opposed open TV, although closed circuit television is widely used in schools and universities. But many South Africans hoped when Dr. Albert Hertzog, one of TV's most tenacious opponents, gave up his posts and telegraphs portfolio this year, the government would relax its opposition.

However the new minister restated his predecessor's position with at least as much emphasis on the grounds that to introduce TV would be too expensive and detrimental to the community.

The government policy seems to conflict with the activities of the South African Broadcasting Corporation which covers most important public events and other activities for overseas TV networks.

Other anomalies appeared as the SABC board of governors commissioned designs for television studios for its projected new radio headquarters.

Eye Bank Movie Appears On TV

To focus the film on the Eye Bank of Canada, some Canadians who have benefited from the corneal operation had a part in the program, Escape from Darkness, to be seen on CBC-TV, Nov. 23 at 4 p.m.

Further information about the Eye Bank of Canada and donor cards may be obtained from the nearest CNIB office or the Divisional Service Centre at 350 East 36th Avenue, Vancouver 15, B.C., Telephone 321-2311.

ALWAYS IN TOP 10

Bonanza has been in the top 10 shows for all of its 10 years on television.

Royal Ballet 'Very Funny'

PARIS (Reuters) — The Paris newspaper France Soir praises the Royal Winnipeg Ballet's Naissa as "screamingly funny."

"It is not current for a classical ballet to make one laugh," says France Soir's ballet critic, Jacqueline Cartier. "Yet there is the case with Naissa, a 'screamingly funny' creation by the Royal Winnipeg Ballet."

Leading dancer Christine Hennessy was "more champagne than cognac."

"She is irresistible, with her infallible point work and her fixed gaze," Mlle. Cartier says.

She also praises Richard Rutherford as "a charming dancer" in another ballet Aimes-vous Eché.

Von Suppe's music for Naissa was "sumptuously your own" and Brian MacDonald's choreography "helped the most difficult steps along to make them tumble into parody," Mlle. Cartier says.

Zorba's Stay Should Be Long

NEW YORK (AP) — A magnificent musical, Zorba, opened Sunday night at Broadway's Imperial Theatre. It should be there a long, long, long time.

In addition to having such basic essentials as a fine cast, good score and visual appeal, the production achieves the difficult transition from entertaining showman's trip to memorable art.

Part of this merit is inherent in the story, derived from a novel by Nikos Kazantzakis which supplied Anthony Quinn with one of his finest film roles. The key credit for the stage concept belongs to Harold Prince, producer and director.

Zorba, performed with rough exuberance by Herschel Bernardi, is a gregarious Greek who lives for each day only in his quest for freedom. He teams up—the time is 1924—with a bookish stranger to reopen an island mine. The tension of these unlikely partners with rural superstition and violence solidly provides the exciting theatrical excitement.

SHOULD SEE

Zorba is an achievement no theatre fan could miss. What other critics said:

Clive Barnes, New York Times: "In total, Zorba... is not a great classic American musical, but it will still serve admirably until the next one comes along."

John Chapman, New York Daily News: "Zorba... is magnificent, a great work of musical theatre... a thrilling, zealous, absorbing musical play which has been given everything... make an unforgettable evening."

Richard Watts Jr., New York Post: "To put it flatly, Zorba is brilliant, and so is Herschel Bernardi in the title role..."

TAUGHT SCHOOL

Ab Douglas, CBC's Moscow correspondent, taught public school in Manitoba from 1949 to 1950.

HUNGER STRIKE

Greek film star Melina Mercouri, above, joins in a hunger strike outside the Greek embassy in London. The strike is an "action of sympathy" for Alexander Panagoulis, who had been sentenced to death in connection with a plot to assassinate Greek Premier Papadopoulos. Panagoulis has since been reprieved.

Be Tolerant Say Supremes

LONDON (AP) — American pop star Diana Ross injected a plea for tolerance into the annual royal performance at the Palladium Monday night and got a big hand from the Royal Family. Several critics were less enthusiastic.

Diana, the Detroit girl who leads the Supremes, paused in an emotional performance of "There's a Place for Us" from West Side Story and spoke to the audience:

"A place for all of us—black and white, Jew and gentile, Catholic and Protestant."

"Such was the world of Martin Luther King and his ideal."

"If we keep this in mind, then we can carry on his work."

Then she finished the song and applause rang through the theatre, led by Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon. In the royal box with them were Queen Mother Elizabeth, Prince Charles and 18-year-old Princess Anne.

Diana had earlier told impresario Bernard Delfont of her plan to interrupt the song. He approved after determining it was not a Black Power demonstration.

Don Short of the Daily Mirror comments: "The colored Supremes had obviously planned it as a moment of high drama. But the impact was lost. They got the coolest reception of the night."

The Guardian's Derek Malcolm says it was "a rather mawkish tribute which seemed inappropriate for the occasion." He adds the Supremes "never gave of their very considerable best."

Thumbprint Aided Artists To Guard Against Forgers

TORONTO (CP) — Even when Fred Varley was starting out, he was sure that some day his paintings would be valuable. He took steps to prevent forgery.

Carefully, alongside his bold signature, he placed his thumbprint. Not on all of his works—usually only those of which he was particularly proud.

He was careless about the signature itself. It might be "F. H. Varley" or just plain "Varley." Occasionally it would be "F. Horsman Varley."

And the painting or sketch might be signed on the lower left or the upper right or lower right.

Frederick Horsman Varley once, like A. Y. Jackson, was one of the rebels of Canadian art who formed the Group of Seven. That was a half-century ago. Today he lives in quiet retirement in Unionville, north of Toronto.

But he has not been forgotten. The National Gallery of Canada is interested in him and so is the Canada Council, to such an extent that it has set up the Varley Inventory.

They ask: "Where have all the Varleys gone?"

SEEK INFORMATION

The Varley Inventory, headed by the artist's son, Peter Varley, 97A Bloor St. W., Toronto, seeks information on the whereabouts of Fred Varley's works, from early commercial illustrations to landscapes, charcoal sketches and oils, personal and business papers, photographs and other documents.

The information will be catalogued and placed in the National Gallery archives for the use of scholars and researchers.

Born in Sheffield, England, in 1881, Fred Varley came to Canada in 1912. He did commercial art for a living but his interests, like those of Jackson, Arthur Lismer and Lawren Harris who in 1920 were to found the famed Group of Seven, lay in the harsh outdoors world around him. He wanted to put it on canvas. He and all the others did. They survived the resulting criticism of an art world not yet ready to accept Canadian art as art.

In his travels across the country he came to love as his own—to Vancouver, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Montreal, the Arctic, painting as he went—Varley left a trail of paintings, drawings and sketches. They did not sell for much then and few have found homes in public collections. Most were purchased privately and remain unknown to all but the owners.

He loved to do large works and those are the ones best known today. His largest is believed to be Some Day the People Will Return, a Canadian War Memorials project, 72 by 90 inches, owned by the National Gallery. The gallery also has his 50-by-72-inch German Prisoners, painted in 1918.

Like his old friend A. Y. Jackson, he liked landscapes. Among his better-known works of this type is Stormy Weather, Georgian Bay, 52 by 64 inches, painted about 1920.

Real-Life Drama Was Enacted During Shooting Of War Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It seemed impossible, going into Soviet occupied Czechoslovakia to film battle scenes for an American movie. Yet director William Kronick managed that feat and has returned with the footage to complete a $5,000,000 war epic.

Kronick was the second-unit director of The Bridge at Remagen. In movie parlance, the second unit is the company which films action sequences and backgrounds which don't require the principal actors. Like the rest of the American film troupe, Kronick evacuated in a motorcade a day after the Russians and their allies invaded Czechoslovakia.

Forty per cent of the picture remained to be filmed, including important battle scenes that could be shot only at the Czech bridge which doubled for the Rhine span where American troops crossed in the Second World War. Producer David Wolper arranged for the rest of The Bridge at Remagen to be completed in Hamburg and Italy.

EQUIPMENT WAS THERE

"But we still needed desperately to shoot the final battle and the blowing up of the bridge in Czechoslovakia," Wolper said in an interview. "All of our equipment was still in Czechoslovakia—the tanks and heavy trucks we had leased from Austria.

"We met with the Czechs and the Russians in Vienna and began negotiations. They agreed to let us return for seven days of filming, even though it included a lot of big explosions with dynamite and TNT, tanks firing, etc."

Kronick returned to Prague and began preparations to shoot the battle scenes.

"It wasn't easy, because I had to match what had been shot before the invasion," he says. "We had been using Czech soldiers who had been especially chosen to look like Americans—and they resemble Americans more than any other Europeans could have."

"But by now all those soldiers had been discharged, and we had to train new ones."

HIRED 675 EXTRAS

Kronick lined up 400 to impersonate American soldiers, 175 to pose as refugees crossing the bridge, and another 100 for Germans.

In troubled Czechoslovakia, it was feared that the gunfire and explosions required for the filming might alarm the populace. Elaborate precautions were made to inform the citizens of the filming plans, and army troops ringed the area to prevent any incidents.

"We were fighting against time," said Kronick. "The weather was turning cold, and the leaves were beginning to redden. This would have conflicted with the early scenes, which were filmed in spring. And the whole picture was supposed to take place in three days."

"We were all set up to shoot and then the weather became too overcast for shooting. Finally on the seventh day, the sun came out and I photographed the 20 scenes I needed, all in one day."

Producer Wolper observed that the dislocation of the film company added $1,000,000 to the budget—but then, we also got $1,000,000 worth of publicity."

Resignation Of Celia Franca

TORONTO (CP) — John Godfrey, president of the National Ballet Guild of Canada, said the guild was taken by surprise when Celia Franca resigned Friday after 18 years as artistic director.

Miss Franca, in a letter to the guild's 17th annual meeting, said her policies are "currently receiving overwhelming criticism from very many quarters."

"There is reason to believe that the majority of our directors, guild members, staff members, company members, government grant-giving bodies, and the news media have lost confidence in me."

Said Hamilton Cassels, guild chairman: "... We have every confidence in what she's been doing and asked her to reconsider. But she's a strong-willed woman, and it's impossible to predict what will happen."

Miss Franca, who began dancing when she was 11 years old, was invited by the guild to come to Canada from England in 1951 to organize a national company.

She built the company to its present troupe of 55 dancers and 25 musicians, known for its vitality and discipline from Halifax to Mexico City.

WEARS MANY HATS

Miss Franca has been responsible for choosing dancers, directing their training, choosing the repertoire and planning the program.

The company, currently on tour in the Maritimes, opens its Toronto session Dec. 26 with a performance of the Nutcracker Suite.

In her letter she said she would remain in her position for the remainder of the current season which ends next fall.

"However, as from today, I renounce responsibility for any actions I may be pressured to take against my better judgment."

The resignation was the guild's second in less than a week.

Breaking Up Of Warsaw Pact 'Could Be Bad For Europeans'

OTTAWA (CP) — The European situation could become more dangerous in the 1970s if the Communist Warsaw Pact were to break up, Alastair Buchanan, director of the Institute for Strategic Studies in London, said here.

In an interview on the CBC television show "Twenty Million Questions," he suggested there could be a role for Canada in mobile forces that would be needed to cope with localized outbreaks.

"The Czech situation isn't any means over," Mr. Buchanan said.

"You could easily get three or four recurrences of mass resistance to the Russians and one of these would spill over."

"So that the business of keeping the peace in Europe, I think, is going to be more complex. We've had a rather easy time of this since the last Berlin crisis."

Mr. Buchanan said a major Soviet aggression against Western Europe is implausible, but a local development might explode, demanding forces that could be moved in an area.

Canada's "small, but very efficient" forces in Europe would have to be replaced by some other Western country if they were withdrawn, he said.

"Also, I think there's a very strong case, if Canada feels disposed to do so, for providing more of this mobile element."

On the same program, Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said Canada should be prepared to remain in NATO until some-thing approaching an East-West detente has been reached.

"I don't see how anybody can really believe that there isn't a threat in view of what's happened in Czechoslovakia," he said.

The ruthlessness of the Soviet-led intervention, he said, means that "we must recognize that they might be that ruthless towards us too if they get the opportunity."

Mr. Stanfield suggested that Prime Minister Trudeau had pre-judged the current review of foreign policy, including Canada's contribution to NATO, in a recent Kingston, Ont., speech during which he had "indicated he didn't really think there was very much of a threat from outside."

David Lewis, NDP parliamentary leader, said the Czech invasion "ought not to make us hysterical about the situation."

Although reprehensible, he said, the invasion had nothing to do with East-West confrontation. It was an internal matter within the Communist bloc.

Second Time Around For Heart Recipients

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two patients received new hearts for the second time Thursday after earlier transplants failed.

Everett Thomas, 47, the longest-surviving heart transplant patient in the United States, received a second replacement at St. Luke's Hospital in Houston, Tex. His condition today was listed as satisfactory.

Darrell Hammarley, 56, received a second heart at Stanford University Hospital in Stanford, Calif., after the first replacement began beating erratically within six hours. His condition today was given as fair.

Hammarley, a retired airline pilot from San Jose, Calif., was the first in history to undergo a second heart transplant. Dr. Norman E. Shumway, a pioneer heart transplant surgeon, was in charge of the surgical team.

Dr. Denton E. Cooley headed the team operating both times on Thomas, who received his first donor heart May 3 in the world's ninth heart transplant.

Thomas, an accountant, was discharged from the hospital last summer and began work as a trust consultant for a bank in Houston.

He was readmitted to the hospital last month and it was announced he was showing signs of rejecting the heart. His condition was reported as serious shortly before the second transplant.

The hospital did not identify Thomas' second donor—a 47-year-old woman who died of a brain hemorrhage. The first was a 15-year-old girl.

The Stanford donors also were not named.

BIDDING QUIZ

You are South, both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
1 NT Pass

What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠AK862 ♥K93 ♦J65 ♣Q9
2. ♠AQJ93 ♥KJ ♦Q874 ♣62
3. ♠QJ854 ♥K72 ♦53 ♣KJ6
4. ♠KJ76 ♥Q743 ♦9 ♣AK83
5. ♠Q853 ♥AJ85 ♦8 ♣764

1. Three notrump. Basically, this is an application of the rule that an opening bid facing an opening bid means game. It would be wrong to bid only two notrump, inviting a game, since partner might pass. The only real question is whether it is better to jump to three spades than three notrump, but, with supporting honors in all suits, a notrump contract is probably best.

2. Three diamonds. Here you can't be certain whether the best contract is spades, diamonds or notrump, so you jump to three diamonds (forcing) to compel partner to take a choice. You intend to bid four spades if he bids three, five diamonds if he bids four, and to pass if his rebid is three notrump.

3. Pass. There is not much chance for a game, since North's notrump rebid is probably based on 13 or 14 points, though he may have as few as 12 or as many as 15. Two spades might turn out best, but one notrump will prove safer in the long run.

4. Three notrump. Hands with 4-4-4-1 distribution generally play best in a suit, but with the present layout there is very little chance that a suit contract will prove more effective than notrump. North has at most three spades, since he failed to raise the suit, so game in spades is out of the question.

Game in clubs is too remote to be seriously considered, and a possible heart game should also be dismissed, since partner failed to bid the suit. The short route to game looks best.

5. Two hearts. With only 7 high-card points and 5-4-3-1 distribution, a suit contract is apt to work out better than notrump. Notrump is generally not as safe as a suit contract when the high cards are about evenly divided between the two sides.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Saturday will mark the fifth day of a period which should give, and should continue to give, your spirits a real lift. Stars continue to smile on personal relationships, stimulating social activities and romance. Try to make some time for real relaxation, however, in preparation for a busy week ahead.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your chart presents some pleasing prospects for the year ahead, especially where personal relationships in general, and romance in particular, are concerned. If you are single, there is a possibility of a new romance and marriage each summer, early April, in late August, late October or next November, but sentimental interests for all said this month those already wed, have those prove extremely happy and the next 12 months are among the coming days of a new romance.

Record Year For Hunters

By JIM TREADGOLD

A GREAT NUMBER of local hunters were in the hills last weekend in this area as it was the end of the antlerless mule deer and elk season in GMA No. 8.

The antlerless mule deer season in No. 6 closes this weekend and antlerless white-tail deer stays open until Dec. 8 and mule bucks until Dec. 1. This is in GMA No. 6.

The emphasis on hunting will now shift to GMA No. 8 where all deer are open except antlerless mule, and to GMA No. 15 where all deer and moose are open until this weekend. Moose close in all local areas on Nov. 24.

There was a fair take of deer last weekend as the snow was working to the advantage of the hunter. A good part of the deer kill last week were large bucks who are still on the move a great deal in their rutting season.

The kill on moose has not been heavy since the cow season opened but this year could set a record for the numbers taken locally. A rough guess would be around 60 taken in this area which is something, since we had no visible numbers of these fine animals 10 years ago.

The record snows, especially at the higher altitudes are moving the game down, where the hunters have a better chance at them, and it is expected that hunting will remain quite good until the end of the season.

THE PEACHLAND AREA has been producing quite well as has the Bear Creek area especially on the hills close to the lake. The Beaverdell-Carmi area has not been good to date, the reason, I believe, being that this area has taken quite a beating the last few years. Christian Valley has been quite good in certain areas, mostly not too far up the Valley. Even the little up Plover Creek above Westbank has produced a number of deer last weekend, with Dick Freddenhams, Bob Jablonski, and Hans Hansen getting their share of bucks and antlerless.

When we think of holidays, it usually means driving to the coast or down south. Not too often do we spend a holiday at home. However, a few days holiday spent at home in this area can be interesting and enjoyable for the sportsman in the fall.

Al Perley, the manager of the Royal Bank, and an ardent sportsman, decided to spend a week of his holidays "at home" this fall. He spent last week fishing and hunting in this area. On the first day he took a limit of pheasants and a few ducks. On the second day he fished Okanagan Lake and caught a nice rainbow trout. On the third day he went deer hunting and got two deer. What happened the last few days of the week, I don't know as I was away at the Coast, but the first few days would make a holiday to remember for anyone.

Pheasants closed last weekend and the largest pheasants entered to date in the First and Game Club's annual pheasant trophy appears to have ended in a tie, as more entries are not expected. Dr. Darrell Sherrin and Mario Pupatto both entered birds measuring 39 1/2 inches.

Mario's bird had about one-eighth of an inch shot off the tip of the bill, which was allowed for and the doctor's bird looked well stretched. So it looks like there will have to be two trophies for this season unless a late entry comes in. Ken Nicholls said he had a longer one in his deep freeze that he was getting out.

NOT MANY DEER and moose heads have been entered in the trophy contests as yet, but it is usually near the season's end when the big animals are taken. Ernie Chores of Ernie's BA is again the club's official scorer.

The club is still in need of more game meat for the annual game banquet, especially moose and elk meat, and any donations will be gratefully accepted. It takes about 400 pounds of rolled meat to stage this popular banquet which will this year be held in the new Rutland Community Hall on Jan. 25. Tickets will go on sale in early January and sales will be restricted to members and guests only for the first week.

The Kelowna and District Fish and Game Club is an area club and as there are many members from the Rutland area, and as facilities to hold this affair are available, there now, it was decided to hold the banquet out there this time.

Fishing in the area is improving with the whitefish now running and being taken in fair numbers. A few large rainbows are being taken in Okanagan Lake on the surface troll.

The first large rainbow trout taken by 16-year-old Bruce McCall will be remembered long by him and his companions, Brock Waldron and Greg Herron. Fishing on Wednesday afternoon near the mouth of Mission Creek, Bruce hooked and landed a 16 1/2 pounder, a real nice fish. He was using a plug on a surface line.

I HAVE HAD A request from Charlie Calk, leader of the Kelowna Cub packs to mention that the Cub packs are asking for deer and moose hides. The Cubs are collecting hides to help augment their finances. These hides are now tanned and made into gloves by a number of factories today and bring a dollar or so to the Cubs for each hide they collect. This is a worthy project so instead of just throwing that hide away, leave it at the Safety store or at the Hiawatha meat market or phone Charlie Calk at 3-3549. Mark the hides for "Cubs".

Charlie is one of our traffic officers and has time on his hands these days to gather up the hides, so give him a ring.

Comeback Trail Tough One For Former Canadian Champ

MONTREAL, (CP) — One look at Bob Cleroux's face and anyone would have thought he had just gone through a meat grinder.

Cleroux, 30, a former Canadian heavyweight boxing champion, scored a unanimous decision over Cleveland Williams in a 10-round heavyweight fight Thursday night, but his opponent's face indicated he had tough going.

Cleroux sat in his dressing room exhausted and was almost unable to speak about his victory against Williams, 35, of Houston, Tex.

"He hit me pretty hard in every round," Cleroux said quietly. "But I managed to cover up."

After that he had a head and was unable to go on about how he posted the biggest victory since he decided to come out of a five-year retirement earlier this year.

Cleroux had four or five visible marks on his face. His eyes were half-closed and his cheeks were inflamed.

Montreal Back In First After Win Over Flyers

By SCOTT BUTTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Remember Gump Worsley, that fat little guy who has made his living as a National Hockey League goaltender for so many years now?

Well despite his age and round physique, Worsley still is efficient enough to play goal for a team which now leads the Eastern Division.

The 38-year-old netminder picked up his first shutout this season and the 36th of his NHL career Thursday night to help Montreal Canadiens defeat Philadelphia Flyers 3-0.

The victory, watched by 11,269 fans at the Spectrum in Philadelphia, moved the Canadiens one point ahead of the runner-up New York Rangers in the East.

The shutout was especially gratifying to Worsley because Rogation Vachon, younger and slimmer, has played more frequently than Worsley the last couple of years.

Some fans had even dismissed Worsley as a second-stringer, destined to play only if Vachon was injured or ailing.

In other NHL games Thursday, Boston Bruins moved back into third place in the Eastern Division with a 4-1 triumph against Los Angeles Kings and Pittsburgh Penguins downed Oakland Seals 3-1.

SCORE FOR MONTREAL
The Canadiens, defending Stanley Cup champions, received goals from Bobby Rousseau in the first period, John Ferguson in the second and Gilles Tremblay in the third.

Worsley kicked out 22 Philadelphia shots in recording his second victory in as many nights. He was in goal Wednesday when the Canadiens edged Detroit Red Wings 3-2.

The Canadiens held a definite advantage in play, firing 49 shots at Philadelphia goaltender Bernie Parent.

Jean Beliveau picked up one assist for the Canadiens to move into a second-place tie with Red Berenson of St. Louis Blues in the scoring race. Both have 26 points, six back of Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks.

The Bruins moved one point ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs with their victory against Los Angeles in front of 14,618 Boston fans.

Fred Stanfield scored two goals for Boston and Eddie Shack and Phil Esposito added one each. Bill Plitt scored the Los Angeles goal.

DOMINATE PLAY
The Bruins dominated play, outscoring the Kings 35-19. Los Angeles had only one shot on Boston goaltender Gerry Cheevers in the second period.

The Kings took a 1-0 lead in the first period on Flett's goal, then the Bruins took over. The loss left Los Angeles in fourth place in the Western Division.

One Important Matter Surrounds Derby Case

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Although the stakes are high, Peter Fuller seldom changes expression as he listens to a daily replay of events before and after the Kentucky Derby.

Fuller's composure did slip slightly Thursday when his lawyer, Arthur W. Grafton, told the Kentucky Racing Commission that there was only one important issue in the case before it.

Fuller nodded vigorously as Grafton remarked:

"Only one man in the whole United States has said that from his own knowledge, Dan-er's Image had phenylbutazone in his urine. That man is Kenneth Smith."

Smith, official chemist for Churchill Downs, reported the presence of the drug in the horse's urine after the Derby and Fuller was deprived of $122,600 first prize. He now is appealing this action.

Smith has insisted that the five tests run in his laboratory proved "without a doubt" that the drug was in the urine.

In hammering away at this testimony, Grafton said that Smith, when he appeared before the Churchill Downs steward, claimed that he had run only five tests, but now was contending that others had been made on the Monday following the Derby.

After Smith made his report on the presence of the medication in the horse, the stewards held a hearing and called for a redistribution of the purse with the winner's share going to Forward Pass, who had finished second in the Derby.

Smith retorted that he was only clarifying his previous testimony and was not making any changes.

He also insisted that tests made were those approved in 1964 by the American Association of Official Racing Chemists, of which he is a member.

Grafton said AAORC recommendations were updated in 1967 to include two more tests which Smith did not use on the night of the Derby, May 4.

By way of explanation, Smith said:

"In my mind I don't adopt these new procedures just because they are published. I want to try them out myself in the horse, the stewards

Bad Weather For Final

OTTAWA, (CP) — Snow and rain were forecast for the capital today and, combined with temperatures in the high 30s, prospects dimmed for a firm field for Saturday's deciding game of the Eastern Football Conference.

Toronto Argonauts take a two-point lead into the second game of the total-points final by virtue of their 13-11 victory over Ottawa Rough Riders last Sunday.

The Argos figure their chances are better on a poor field, a view not shared by Ottawa coach Frank Clair and his players.

Quarterback Russ Jackson agreed Thursday that Sunday's muddy field in Toronto wasn't the big factor in Ottawa's loss. He said it was the Argos blitz on him and Ottawa's failure to do something about it.

He also feels Argos will serve up more of the same against him Saturday, with perhaps a new twist here and there.

"When you've won a ball game, you're not going to make many changes," he said.

With mild temperatures forecast for Saturday and slight winds, Jackson and quarterback Wally Gahler of Toronto will be able to continue their passing duel.

COMES OUT ON TOP

In the regular season, Gahler emerged as top passer in the East. He completed 205 of 365 throws for 3,242 yards. Jackson found the target on 171 of 305 passes for 3,187.

All hands are reported healthy in the Ottawa camp and Clair says he'll go with the same lineup he had a week ago.

When the soccer season opens in Kelowna next year, Okanagan Mission will be represented by two teams in new uniforms. These two teams will play on a new soccer field, the first ever in that area. Residents of Okanagan Mission have made a concerted effort to improve the calibre of soccer in the area and have apparently succeeded. The two teams are the Tigers and the Eldorados. Members of the Eldorado team in the top picture are, from left to right: coach Roy

After Saturday, Miss Early said she would rest for a short while, then go to California and apply for a jockey licence there. "I hope it's different," she said about California. "I hope they've got a different class of people there."

Miss Early had been expected to ride last Saturday, but her mount was scratched because of track conditions. Tuesday, she was replaced aboard another horse by the regular jockey.

The announcement of Thursday's cancellation was greeted with boos and catcalls from the stands.

Individual jockeys had threatened to boycott any race in which Miss Early was entered.

Lady Jockey's Ride Cancelled

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A "disappointed and disgusted" Penny Ann Early, thwarted in her latest attempt to become America's first woman flat-track thoroughbred jockey, says she does not intend to give up.

Miss Early, 25, was scheduled to ride Wilness in Thursday's ninth race at Churchill Downs, but the race was cancelled because riders could not be found for the other horses in the race.

"They (the jockeys) are calling themselves men, but I have no respect for them as riders or men," Miss Early said after the race had been called off. "None of them could look me in the eye."

She said she intends to remain available to ride through Saturday, the last day of the fall meet at Churchill Downs.

Catcher Ends Monopoly By Taking Rookie Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Bench, catcher for Cincinnati Reds, nosed out Jerry Koosman, a New York Mets pitcher, 10½ to 9½ for National League Rookie of the Year honors today.

It was the first time in the 20-year history of the award conducted by the Baseball Writers Association of America that one vote decided the winner. The balloting was done by a 20-man committee of writers, two from each league city.

One writer, Jim Enright of the Chicago American, split his vote and cast one half for each player.

It was the first time this had been done in the rookie competition.

Normally the voting is by secret ballot. However, any writer is free to reveal his own vote, as Enright did.

Bench, 21, became eligible for the award because a late-season injury forced him out of the lineup in 1967. He went to bat 86 times that year. Had he gone up 91 times, he would not have been eligible under the rules that put limits of 90 at bats or 45 innings pitched on rookie classification.

The Reds' catcher started slowly but finished with a .275 average, 15 homers and 82 runs batted.

Koosman, 24, opened up strong with two successive shutouts against Los Angeles and San Francisco and rolled up a string of 21 consecutive scoreless innings. He won his first four and 19 over the season. He had seven shutouts for the ninth-place club.

The left-hander set a team record with a 2.08 earned run average in 263 2/3 innings. Of his 12 defeats, two were by 3-2 and others by 3-0, 2-0 and 3-1.

The 1967 National League winner was Tom Seaver, also a Met pitcher.

The choice of Bench broke the monopoly of pitchers on the post-season awards. Denny McLain of Detroit won both the Cy Young for pitchers and Most Valuable Player awards in the American and San Bahnsen of the New York Yankees was the Rookie of the Year. Bob Gibson of St. Louis won both the Cy Young and MVP in the National.

SKI POINTERS

Size Of Equipment

By DAVE BREWER

Choosing equipment of the proper length can be somewhat confusing, not only for newcomers to the sport but often as not to the dyed-in-the-wool Tyrols. The old fallacy that a ski had to be on the long side to be effective, has long been disproved.

Here are the rules that should make choosing a ski of the right length easy for you. Children six to 12 years should use a ski as long as they are tall. Beginners will get a quicker, safer, happier introduction if they choose a ski eye level in length. For the "young at heart" who seldom get off the hard-pack and like to take it easy, though they may ski parallel, the pros consider them wise if they use a ski as long as they are tall; this is certainly not cheating, it is realistically all the ski they need.

The bombers and those who like to get into the powder snow occasionally do well to select a ski the point of which cups nicely in the palm of the hand when reaching tall with shoes on. Steer clear of slalom and downhill models—stick to the combination ski, or for the demanding recreational skier, at most, a giant slalom model.

With the modern miracle materials used, a soft flex is right for women, intermediate skiers and those who are slight of build; a medium flex is the trick for the heavyweights and advanced skiers.

Stiff skis are a thing of the past. For the right ski pole length, choose something that fits easily under the armpit standing in street shoes on a hard floor.

Canadians In College Hockey

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—Ned Harkness won't tell you that his Cornell University hockey team—which is loaded with Canadians—is the one to beat in the East this year. But just about every other coach around will.

"It's all up to guesswork now," Harkness said recently when asked to rate the top teams in the East. "Things are pretty young at this stage of the game."

The men whose teams will have to play the Big Red night-fisted by the non-committal posture of a coach who has won three Ivy League titles in a row and has had the best eastern team for the last two years. One of those teams, 1966-67, won the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships.

After Cornell, however, the consensus among coaches in New York state is that Harvard, Boston College, Boston University and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute will be scrambling for a berth in the NCAA hockey championships in the spring.

The biggest reason the future still looks bright for the Big Red is a six-foot-three and weighs 200 pounds. His name is Ken Dryden.

PRIZE GOALIE

Ken Dryden, coach of the Cornell University team, describes Dryden as "the best goalie that's ever played college hockey."

Dryden, a senior from Ithaca, N.Y., has been an All-American for both of his varsity years.

Beyond Dryden, Harkness has, with one exception, virtually the same team that compiled a record of 27-2 last year. Lost through graduation is All-American defenseman Walt Stanowski, of Toronto. Bruce Pattison of Toronto and Gordie Lowe of Aurora, Ont., both seniors, are expected to start at defence for Cornell and high-scoring Brian Cornell of Stamford, Ont., also an All-American, is back to centre the first line.

Harkness says he believes RPI will be one of the better teams in the East—an observation that should please Rensselaer coach Garry Keams, an RPI alumnus who played under Harkness before Ned went to Cornell six years ago.

HAS POTENTIAL

"We have the potential to be a contender," admits Keams. "It all depends on our goalie, Tom Nichol."

Nichol, a senior from Toronto, played surprisingly well last year and now is the Eagles' only goaltender.

"If he's not feeling well, he'll have to play anyway," says Keams.

Besides Nichol, RPI has an experienced club headed by Dale Watson, one of the highest scorers in the country two years ago, and Richie Scammel, from Fredericton, Ont., and Watson, from Owen Sound, Ont., are both seniors.

"It's taken a long time to get this type of team together," Keams says.

DRESS IT

The diminutive Keams says that RPI will be able to take advantage of the new collegiate rule that allows a team to dress 17 players besides goal-tenders. In the past, RPI was considered fortunate if it could dress the old limit of 15. New York's two best

LOADED WITH CANUCKS

Country rivals—St. Lawrence and Clarkson—once a gain should frustrate schools that have scheduled them on successive nights.

Clarkson faces a better future with a potential superstar in sophomore John Halmie of Peterborough, Ont.

Halmie, says coach Len Ceglarski, skates "as if he had a motor in his cun."

Halmie scored 55 goals in his freshman year.

DEPEND ON CANUCKS

Ceglarski also said he was counting heavily on defenseman Rick Magnusson, a junior from Ottawa, and forward Tom Deaton, of Copper Cliff, Ont., also a junior.

Like Keams, Ceglarski believes Cornell should be rated as the top contender. After that, however, "this is a 10-team race," he says.

Ten miles away, George Menard's Larries are, in the eyes of their coach, "shy on numbers but high on quality."

Menard, who took a year off last year to earn his MBA, lost seven players through graduation and stresses the fact that "we are a young team."

Menard has one of college hockey's most famous names in junior Peter Slater of Renfrew, Ont., a brother of two-time All-American Terry Slater, who now plays professional hockey.

CORNELL TOUGH

Menard sees Cornell as "outstanding" and thinks they may "be better than two years ago." He stresses the point, however, that he did not see the Big Red play last year.

Colgate's Ryan sees the eastern race as "the most balanced in years."

"I have the best team I've had in a long time," he says. "But we will be playing against teams that are better than ever."

The Red Raiders are centred around a first line of Tom Earl from Niagara Falls, Ont., Mike Babcock of Kingston, Ont., and John Dandy of Welland, Ont., all juniors. Ryan has just three seniors on the team.

His strength will be depleted somewhat in January when senior Mike Webb, a defenseman from London, Ont., graduates.
